

The OrganWise Guys Review & Giveaway!

By Kim, on July 6th, 2010

CONTEST IS OVER! CONGRATS TO Donna Warrington COMMENT #3!

The OrganWise Guys

Ever heard of them? The OrganWise Guys? Either had I. When I was introduced to them, I thought them to be hilarious and so very practical. The OrganWise Guys is little plush stuffed animals shaped like organs from our bodies. They are adorable and they each come with their own DVD explaining what they do in our bodies.

The OrganWise Guys Review

I received the Kidney Brothers and Hardy the Heart along with DVD's and a hardcover book. It lets your kids know, in a fun way, what is in our bodies and what each organ does. Fun and kinda cute 😊 The videos are a blast too. Very informative, but yet fun and the little guys are cute! My son also got 10 fun tattoos to share with his sister, which he ended up using them ALL himself, LOL! The activity books were also a huge hit, it really all was!

My kids are learning what each organ does in their body, thanks to OrganWise Guys and the fun way they approach this subject. I think this is a wonderful idea and great for families that are experiencing any sickness or a child who is ill. The plush organs are very soft and colorful. My daughter ended up with the heart and my son claimed the kidney brothers 😊

Who EXACTLY, is the OrganWise Guys? (taken from the Press Release):

Imagine if your body could speak to you. Really. Imagine if it could really speak to you. For children, learning has to be imaginative and fun. So, as the childhood obesity crisis persists, teaching children about health and wellness is imperative but it has to be imaginative and fun. See for yourself by visiting <http://www.organwiseguys.com/kids.html> and listening to The Buddy Song.

The cast of The OrganWise Guys — Hardy Heart, Peri Stolic (the large intestine), Sir Rebrum, Pepto the Stomach and Sid and Kid Kidney(The Kidney Brothers) along with buddies Calci M. Bone, Windy the Lungs and Madame Muscle is a collection of friendly, delightfully eccentric characters that are cleverly personified body parts. They invite parents and their children to join them on child-friendly experiences as they learn to incorporate healthy eating and physical activity into their daily lives.

Who knew an intestine could be so cute? Or kidneys could be so funny? Or a brain could be well, so brainy? The OrganWise Guys take their motto very personally: We love who we live in so please take care of us!?

The OrganWise Guys puppets deliver bite-sized messages, meshed with humor, songs and exciting situations that children will love. Pre-school and school-aged children learn about nutrition, physical activity, character education and other life skills through inspiring music and adventures and a host of product offerings.

OrganWise Guys even has some coloring sheets you can print off right from their site! My kids love theirs!
